The Institute was founded in 1998.
Its objective is to spread information about, and organize trainings and meetings on Open Space Technology. This is done through its website, by organizing meetings and training events, and by providing material on Open Space Technology which is not readily available otherwise.

There is a lot of good material on Open Space Technology, which you can find by clicking "Literature and resources"